

Joey Rodriguez, Manager of Community Engagement, The CAUSE program at The Center for Aquatic Sciences

Joey Rodriguez, a Camden resident, is an alumni of Woodrow Wilson High School graduating class of 2008. He went on to attend Rowan University receiving a bachelor's degree in Sociology in 2013. He started his career in The CAUSE program at The Center for Aquatic Sciences 15 years ago as a freshman in high school. During his time at The Center, he has gained a passion for youth development, and currently oversees the CAUSE program as The Manager of Community Engagement. He works with Camden City teens from 8th Grade – 12th grade to become science explainers in their community through outreach programming and summer camps, as well as, working with them to develop professional and personal life skills. Joey has stated that his motivation is wanting to be a positive example for what Camden has to offer. Furthermore, he wants to encourage and challenge the youth in our community to work to their fullest potential and achieve their goals.
